During this re-launch phase of JRIPE, we are accepting submissions. However, please note that while the submission process is functional, minor aspects of the website continue to be under construction. We appreciate your patience as we continue to improve our web presence and processes.

Journal mission

The Journal of Research in Interprofessional Practice and Education (JRIPE) is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal dedicated to advancing interprofessional education and collaborative practice through rigorous research, theory, and evidence-informed knowledge. The journal supports learning, professional development, and collaboration across health and social care by bringing together diverse global perspectives to improve outcomes for individuals, families, and communities.

Submission Requirements

You must read and acknowledge that you've completed the requirements below before proceeding.

- ☒ Manuscript has not been published previously and is not under consideration elsewhere
- ☒ Is one of the accepted article types (empirical research, short report, review article, theoretical or conceptual, book review, letter to the editor)
- ☒ Acknowledges that all authors have made a substantial contribution to the conception or design of the work, the collection, analysis, or interpretation of the data, and/or drafting of the submission. Author contributions are described/listed.
- ☒ Has been approved by all authors prior to submission
- ☒ Is anonymized for the double-blind review process
- ☒ Has been formatted in the JRIPE article template for submissions
- ☒ Includes how principles of equity, diversity, inclusion, and accessibility informed the research process, where applicable.. If not addressed, discuss how this may limit conclusions.
- ☒ Provides a brief statement regarding meaningful engagement of people with lived experience, community members, or other knowledge users in the research process, where applicable.
- ☒ Abides by the full authors manuscript checklist in the For Authors section
- ☒ Adheres to the content, style, and bibliographic requirements outlined in the Author Guidelines, namely the AMA Manual of Style (<https://participatorymedicine.org/journal/styleguide/>).
- ☒ Any use of artificial intelligence (AI) is disclosed
- ☒ All images, figures, and tables have been saved as separate files using Word file format
- ☒ Supplementary datasets can be submitted in Excel file format, if needed.
- ☒ Articles, Anonymized Articles, and Cover letter should be submitted under their respective categories. Any supplementary files should be submitted under their respective category but in the event the proper category isn't there, they can be submitted to any other category.

5. Select the Article section that best fits your article and ensures you read, check off, and follow all submission requirements.

6. Ensure to read and check off both the copyright and privacy statement and leave any relevant comments in the textbox for the editors.

7. Add files to the top right corner. Ensure that the cover letter, and both articles are in a standard word-processing Word format following the JRIPE Style Guidelines. All images, figures, and tables have been saved as separate files using Word file format. Supplementary datasets are submitted in Excel file format.

The image shows a web interface for editing a file. At the top, there is a title bar that says "Edit Non-Anonymized Article.pdf" with a close button (X) on the right. Below the title bar, there is a section titled "What kind of file is this?" followed by the instruction "Choose the option that best describes this file." A list of radio buttons is provided for selection. The first option, "Article Text", is selected. The other options are "Anonymized Article Text", "Cover Letter", "Data Set", "Research Materials", "Research Results", "Source Texts", "Research Instrument", "Transcripts", "Other", and "Data Analysis". At the bottom right of the form, there is a "Save" button.
